Fried for Lunsey-Will be Returned-Green Bi son-High Courtst the Jail-Road Commission-ers Naming the Baby-Snow-Another Retailer-Personal Gosaip, Etc.

MACON, Ga., January 30 .- [Special.]-Peter Edwards was an intelligent mulatto, and until recently was considered smarter than the average negro. A week ago he went to his brother's home in Dubois and appeared to be in great trouble. His wife had left him and he was in great distress about it, and after a long falk, he suddenly exclaimed: "I love every-body! I feel that I am converted. I felt it come in at my toes and go out at the top of my head." His brother tried to keep him quiet, purchased a ticket for his return to Macon, but when he endeavored to get him on the train it was no go. He carried him back home and kept him a day or two when Pete took it into his head that he had to whip the old scratch, jerking off his coat he sailed out in search of his satanic majesty and the brother had to chase him half a mile to catch him. He then, tred him and brought him to Macon where he was confined in the barracks. In the midst of an eloquent sermon he was brought out and tried by a jury on a writ of lunacy today. The jury and by a liker pronounced him ineane, and he wat, in a cell until he can be conveyed to the sea.

Mill be Returned.

Macon, Ga., January 30.—[Special.]—Notice has been served on the county commissioners that several harmless and incurable lunatics will be sent back to Bibb county from the state asylum, at Milledgeville, at an early day.
This is in accordance with the new law lately enacted to prevent the overcrowding of the asylum with lifelong inmates. It seems that the law will work a hardship on the various counties, as it will necessitate the keeping up of 138 branch asylums—one for each county in the state.

Green Rickerson's Case.

Macon, January 30,—[Special.]—The attorneys for defense in the Green Rickerson case, have sent up the papers relating to the case, and they have strong hopes of securing a new trial.

High Court in the Jail.

High Court in the Jail.

MACON, Ga., January 30.—[Special.]—This morning a most amusing scene occurred at the county jail, where there are a number of negroes confined. It seems that Jailer Birdsong has been setting 'em up to cowf, as, and one thief appropriated another thief's allowance to his own private use. The grand fact that a nigger will be a nigger stands forth as prominent as a bump on a log. Andrew Jackson asmed the position of judge, another moke with a presidential name acted solicitor, and the requisite number of coons with revolutionary names took their seats as jurors. The plaintiff and defendant were ably represented and court went on like it was oiled for the occasion. After some master flights of oratory, the jury consulted a few minutes and brought in a verdict of guilty. The judge sentenced the unhappy culprit to pay a fine of fifty cents or take fifty lashes on his bare back. It was extremely laughable, and the judge's charge was inimitable.

MACON, Ges. January 30.—[Special.]—The cussed the condition of the highways that pen-etrate the wilderness of Bibb and the frontiers of Jones. They decided to purchase a new road machine of the latest improved pattern.

MACON, Ga., January 30.—[Special.]—Over at the hospital a little baby was bern the other day, and Superintendent Harmon claimed that as the little stranger was born in his domin ions he had the right to name him. So, in the enthusiastic benevolence of his generous so he labeled the waif "Grover Cleveland." No the kid may never rise to a remarkable height, but he will walk the streets of Macon, some day, with a proud step and a swelling heart, as Colonel Grover Cleveland Williams, Snow.

Macon, Ga., January 30.—[Special.]—Last night Macon was greeted with the first snow fall of the season. Today has been sunny, but it is clouding up now, and old Boreas may bore us again before breakfast.

Another Retailer.

MACON, Ga., January 30.—[Special.]—Com-missioner Erwin looked into Noah Robeson's case this morning and bound him over in the sum of $200. Noah is another Cuthbert spirit-nalist who conducted his seances without tak-ing out the requisite license, the monopoly of which is gobbled up by your Uncle Samuel.

Central Railroad Compress.

Macon, January 30.—[Special.]—The business of the Central railroad has increased to such an extent that they will have to erect a new compress at an early day. With two compresses running Macon will be able to handle a present deal of the december of the great deal of the fleecy staple.

Fooled By a Brown Jug.

MACON, January 30.—[Special.]—Clerk Adams of the superior court, has a warm, cozy office, and cold days folks come to have busi-ness in court so as to get a nibble at that fire. In the corner sits one of those mellow looking old brown jugs which brings up memories old brown jugs which brings up memories of brighter days to ye seedy toper. A negro came into the office the other day and spying the jug, he remarked that the clerk seemed well fitted up. "Yes," said Janitor Fred, "That's Colonel Adams's private bottle, and it has a little mighty good old rye in it. Try some." The unsophisticated nigger accepted with alacrity, and as he spurred a gill of Adams's keromen into the spitters has in the spitters. sene into the spittoon, his face wore an expres sion of disgust that was simply sublime. Th till sits in the corner, and it is hard to

A Handsome Souvenir.

Macon, January 30.—[Special.]—Mr. T. S. Mosely, the popular young druggist at Rankin & Co's, who recently came here from Atlanta, showed me a copy of the Baton, a musical journal published by the Richmond Mostat escaletion. art association. It comes out in handsome style and is intended to be a "souvenir of inaugural concert Mozart academy of music." The Mozart association began with fourteen members in 1876, in a small building, and now it has a large membership and one of the finest music halls in the country. The Souvenir is a gem.

Prohibition in Whitfield.

Dalton, Ga., January 30.—[Special.]—The prohibition contest is about to be reopened again in Dalton and Whitfield county. Mr. Joe Keener, a prominent merchant, is circulating a petition for the purpose of getting a new election on the subject of whisky or no whisky. It is probable that the election will be held. There is a most decided oposition to the movement by the best element of the city and county; and if the contest comes the prohibition forces will be thoroughly organized, and will bring out their fall strength. They have no doubt of carrying the election by a large majority. Dr. Lofton will lecture tomorrow on the facts and arguments in favor of prohibition in Dalter from a trial of two years.

ELEERTON, January 39—[Special.]—Last night some one approached Mr. James Algood's house, in the lower part of this county, and made a noise that attracted Mr. Algood's attention and he went to the door. As he opened the door some one from outside fired both barrels of a double barrelled shotgun at him. Fortunately only one shot struck and that in the mouth, knocking out some teeth. Both loads entered the door facing, right by the side loads entered the door facing, right by the side of his head. Improvements in Valdosta.

VALDOSTA, Ga., January 30.-[Special.] larion Nelson has made a contract with T. S. McKey for the erection of two large brick stores on Patterson street. The old building now oc-comed by William Jones will be torn down, and a much more commodious one put in its place. With two or three exceptions Patterson street will then be built up solid brick stores—which for convenience and handsome appearance will compare most favorably with those in much larger cities than Valdosta. Other improvements will soon be inaugurated. The prospects are that the year 1886 prosperous one in every particular for our

ICILES FROM THE FREEZE. The Sylvania Telephone says: "The recent cold spell accomplished one blessing in extermin ating the pestiferous house fly."

Mr. C. M. Branan, of Irwinton, had a hen that hatched out a setting of eggs during the last cold

During the recent cold spell a dead buzzard was found on a frozen pond a few miles above Dawson, his body lying on the surface while the head was imbedded in the ice. How it came to be so is a mystery unless the poor fowl attempted to drink when the water froze about his head so rapidly that he was unable to extricate it.

Another remarkable incident of the recent cold weather is told by Mr. Christie, who resides near Cameron, in Screven county. He says he was out shooting on Tuesday of the cold spell, and went to Jarrell's lake which was frozen over except a small space near the center, in which was a flock of ducks; that he approached them on the ice near enough to fire into them, and that they merely raised themselves and flapped their wings, being unable, from cold, to fix away, and that he went up and captured the whole lot, thirty-six in number.

FARM AND FACTORY

The Fruit of the Field and the Product of th Artisan. A Telfair county farmer has made five bales of cotton on four acres of pine land.

Mr. J. Alexander, of Greensboro, contemplates opening a jeans clothing manufactory about the 15th of next month. This industry will give employment to fifteen or twenty hands.

Mr. D. N. Sanders, of Taliafero county, has made three hundred gallons of syrup to the acre of sugar cane. He has sold it all at 65 cents a gallon.

Mr. J. W. Moore made last year on his farm adjacent to Greensboro forty-five bales of cotton, 300 bushels of corn and 300 bushels of potatoes. This splendid yield was produced with four horses and affords a marvellous instance of what pluck, faithful labor and sound com mon sense can get out of the land in thi country.

The Perry Journal says that there has been very little difficulty experienced by Houston farmers in arranging for farm labor this year, though the situation in this respect is by no means entirely satisfactory. For many years the negroes have shown a growing indisposition to make yearly contracts, except as tenants, and the farmers have governed them ants, and the farmers have governed themselves accordingly. As a consequence, there are very few laborers employed for wages on yearly contracts. The system is defective, yet the farmers try to make the best of it, and in a measure the day hands name the price in every busy season. A combination of tenants and day hands make up the labor system. The Randolph Cotton Manufacturing com-pany, of Cuthbert, since its organization a few pany, of Cuthbert, since its organization a few years ago, has gone steadily forward in improvement. Quantities of newest patterns in machinery have recently been added, and their splendid property has enhanced in value in many ways within the last year. The gentlemen who manage this mill are widely known for their financial skill and business tact. They could not do otherwise than make a success of any undertaking and it is cess of any undertaking, and it is not a mat-ter of surprise to our citizens that this prop-erty can be made to pay such a handsome divi-dend in the face of such stagnation in business generally.

Perry Journal: Mr. S. D. Rodgers, the depot agent at Perry, has furnished the following statement of the cotton and cotton seed shipped rom Perry last year and the year before. 1884 there were shipped from the Perry depot 2,505 bales of cotton, and 2,943 bales were shipped in 1885; an increase of 438 bales last year. The cotton seed shipped in 1884 amounted to nineteen car loads, while only nine car loads were shipped last year These car loads averaged about 25,000 pounds of cotton seed, or about 833 bushels. It is seen that ten more car loads of seed where shipped in 1884 than in 1885. This loaves about 8,333 bushles of cotton seed on the farms around about Perry that were not there one year ago, not counting the seed from the 438 bales in excess of the number shipped from here in 1884. The fact that these seed have not been sold argues well for the farmers, no matter in what direction the cotfarmers, no matter in what direction the cot-ton money has gone. It is safe to presume that no farmer will sell his cotton seed unless he is sorely pressed for money. In 1885 less than half the amount sold in 1884 were dis-posed of, and though the market value of these seed does not make a large amount, it is a very good sign that our farmers have not sold them. The intrinsic value of cotton seed as manure is much greater than that of an commercial manure that can be purchased for the money the seed will bring. It is safe to assume that nearly all the cotton seed shipped from the Perry depot.were grown on the farms immediately around Perry. That being a fact, these farmers will begin opera-tions this year with 250,000 pounds more of cotton seed than they had last January. These seed will be used as manure, and con-sequently the amount of guano bought will be proportionately less. Following this to its legitimate conclusion, the farmers begin operations by curtailing expenses, but not less-ening the necessities; the cost of production will be lessened and in, like ratio the profits increased.

BUTLER, Ga., January 30.—[Special.]— Spring approaches and soon the small boy will doff his shoes and betake himself with baitgourd to the nearest branch to eatch the enterprising horny head and the early spring freckle, which reminds me of a promise which I made to a friend of mine sometime past, to tell through your paper my experience as to "carp" fish, which I shall proceed to do as follows:

Having on my farm and aear my residence a fine, bold spring of water, and the lay of the land about it being favorable to the making of a fish pond. I built a dam of earth about 100 yards below the spring, the dam, at the lowest level, being about twelve feet high. This gave cundity.

a fish pond. I butter a fish pond. I butter a fish pond. I butter a fish pond a fish pond for twelve feet high. This gave me a pond of clear and pure spring water, nearly circular, from ten feet to six inches deep and covering an area of about one acre. This was done in 1862, and at that time I placed in the pond fifty or seventy-five large suckers, twelve to eighteen inches long and taken from Flint river, near by. What these suckers, twelve to eighteen inches long and taken from Flint river, near by. What these fish dtd, or would have done with care from me, which I failed to give them during the two succeeding years, I do not know, as at the close of the war, having chills in my family, and foolishly suspecting my pond as being the cause, I one day cut the dam out and let what was in the pond go out with the flood of water, but I was afterwards informed by negroes living below the pond that they found many large suckers in the branch soon after many large suckers in the branch soon after he dam was broken.
In 1867 I rebuilt the dam, and acting up

In 1867 I rebuilt the dam, and acting upon the theory of the "survival of the fittest" I placed in the pond an "olla podrida," so to speak of fishes, embracing all the inland varieties of the section. During the succeeding years up to last year this last venture came to but little, the speckled cats and roaches (sometimes called shiners,) only surviving. Last spring, the pond being empty, I raised the water, and on the last day of April I placed in it twenty-seven carp fish, four of which in it twenty-seven carp fish, four of which were 12 or 15 inches long and about two and one-half pounds weight; the remaining twenty-three were about half that size, and the neighbor who furnished them to me stated that the larger sizes were one year and the smaller six months old. I immediately began feeding to them about five pounds of corn bread per to them about five pounds of corn bread per day, and so continued to do until they ceased to bite at a baited hook, which was November. Now comes the fun. About the first of June, or within thirty days after placing the fore-going mentioned twenty-seven in the pond, I one day discovered hundreds of small carp, about three inches long, feeding on the bread cast in the pond, in which process they stood in the water heads down and bodies at an angle of forty or fifty degrees to the bread. angle of forty or fifty degrees to the bread. Upon this discovery "we children" began at corn bread, on small hooks, and catching them as rapidly as we could take them off the hooks and throw them back in the water, they being too small to fry. Inside of the following month of July these small fry had grown to measure eight to ten inches and one-half pound weight, and before cold weather came they were twelve inches or more in length and weighed one and one-half pounds, or perhaps more, as at that time we had ceased to weigh

During the summer and fall there were hundreds of them caught for table use in my family, and given to my friends. Upon the approach of cold weather, I noticed that the water in the pond became slightly muddy, and the fish taken then showed the soft mud of the bottom on their sides and fins, and this discoloration of the water has remained through the winter up to this date. On a succession of warm days in midwinter they bit at, and were caught with the hook baited with corn bread kneeded bethe hook baited with corn bread kneeded b tween the fingers into a soft pellet one-hal inch in diameter. The color of my fish is the same as that of the sucker, perhaps a trifle sighter. They are also shaped like the sucker, having, however, few bones except the spine and rib bones. My "alter ego," who has charge of the culinary department of my establishment, states that these fish while being dressed are the fattest and most delicate tha these who have eaten them is that they are all that can be desired of fish, and want to be placed on record here as saving hat my carp, which are of the variety known is "scale carp," are in no sense "reptilian," and Colonel Lamas's late postulate to that effect to he contrary notwithstanding, but have fir and all the appurtenances of fishes, and non-of reptiles, and while his taste in such matter cannot be lightly considered, we suspec somebody has been playing a "Lamprey en him.

Major Bacon's Travelling Habits.

From the Milledgeville, Ga., Union Hon. A. O. Bacon, of Macon, gave us a cal last week. He was apparently engaged in "prospecting"—so to speak—and adding to his large list of personal acquaintances. It is possible that the gubernatorial question, which will continually grow in interest with the pass ng months, has something to do with Ma Bacon's development of social tastes and travelling habits at this time. He is an exceed ingly pleasant gentleman, and, aside from his or any other man's political aspirations, w shall alwas cherish a grateful remembrance of the very efficient help he gave us in the estab lishment of our college, when it was a matter of great doubt whether it could ever weather the storm of opposition waged against it when it was struggling for existence.

Paying the Preacher in Dooly. from the Dooly, Ga., Academic,

There is a Dooly county Baptist minister who for nearly a year and a half, served a church as punctually as he possibly could—often walk-ing twelve miles to feed his flock, and received as compensation for his services only four dollars. Two dollars of this sum were paid by pans. Iwo dollars of this sum were paid by a young lady who works for her living, one by a widowed lady, not over blessed with the goods of the world, and one by this widow's daughter. If he was worthy of being called to the pastorate of this church, and worthy of being listened to for that length of time, he certainly was worthy of better pay.

Hardie Caldwell, son of Mr. A. G. Caldwell, of Greene county, was working dered a negro helper named Frank Hudson to replenish a fire for their mutual warmth. The negro sullenly undertook to obey the order by merely lighting a few splinters; whereat the young white man directed him to make up a good fire, and stated that to be his meaning whenever he should so direct him. The negro became incensed at the young man's emphasis, and words followed between them. The white man approached the negro, who, having an ax in his band, suddenly dealt Mr. Caldwell a blow on the head which, but for the accident of its slanting, would have killed him. Examination showed that the blow fractured the young man's skull. The negro then made his escepe. The father of the young man offers $50 reward for the ap-prehension of the negro. A fireman named Robert Clydesdale, belonging to the British steamship Border Chieftain, off Savannah, was drowned on Sunday nightin attempting to board the vessel, which was lying on the outside of the British steamship Coronilla at the lower cotton press. The second mate and the third engineer heard a splash, and, running to the wharf side of the spias, and, thining to the what side the spip, saw a man struggling in the water. They did all they could to get hold of him, but he sank before they could reach him. They afterwards picked up a cap which was identified as belonging to the drowned man. He had previously left the ship without permission and gone up town, where he remained some time, and was probably drunk and could not find the gangplank. The noise of the splash made it apparent to those on the ship that some one had fallen in the water from the dock. The body was not recovered. The drowned man was about 23 years of age, and was a native of Glasgow.

In Houston county court last Friday Demp sey Thomas and Lucy, his wife, and Martha Ress, mother of Lucy, were tried on the charge of simple larceny, the specific charge being that of stealing a pocketbook belonging to Mr. $180 in greenbacks, some certificates of deposit and other valuable papers. On the day Mr. Brown sustained the loss these women were upon his premises on a visit. Upor their return to their home near Perry, the mother boastingly said to one of the state's witnesses that she went to Mr. Brown's for a small salary but got a big one. On the day following, the husband of Martha exhibited to another witness for the state, and had hin to count for him $60 in greenbacks, the de to count for him $60 in greenbacks, the de-nominations corresponding with some of those stolen from Mr. Brown. This and other evi-dence equally as strong against Lucy, as well as her mother, authorized the commitment of the women, and they are now under bond of $150 cach to appear for trial at the next term of Houston superior court.

From a letter directed to the postmaster at Oglethorpe, it is learned that a negro named Henry Tyson, who formerly lived in Ogle-thorpe was shot and killed near Leesburg, Fla., on the night of Tuesday, January the 19th. Tyson entered the house of a respectable widow lady, whose only companion was her niece, and after robbing it of its valuables. took the young lady out in the night and out-raged her. in New York.

NEW YORK, January 30.—The great billfard match between Jacob Schaefer and Maurice Vigneaux, which has been in progress for the past five nights, ended tonight. Five thousand dollars was the stake, and either one was obliged to make three thousand points to win The score at the commencement of the game was, Vigneaux 2,400, Schaefer 2,337.

Five minutes after eight Madame Vigneaux entered her box on the right hand side of the hall, and Monsieur Vigneax, Referee Wayman McCreery, of St. Louis, and Herr Schaefer entered the arena, together. Schaefer was in full evening dress, but immediately discarded his swallow tail coat and put on his Cardigan jacket. Vigneaux wore a black suit with a black frock coat. wore a black suit with a black freek coat. Wright Sanford appeared and sat immediately on the right of the table. The balls were carefully weighed after the lights had been turned on and other preliminaries arranged, and at 8:20 pm. the balls were placed in position as left on Friday evening and Vignaux began his VIGNEAUX AT THE TABLE. The balls were in the upper right band corner, spot ball, (Vigneaux) in the center. The first shot was a draw and counted. The other shots followed in rapid succession, and the eighteenth was a fine masse. "Billy" Sexton, unpire for Schaefer, counted twenty-six points made by Vigneaux before Schaefer had a chance to play. No sooner had Schaefer made one than the galleries cheered and evidently endeavored in every way to harass and annoy Vigneaux. Schaefer made seventeen and stopped, and when Vigneax, in preparing for his shot, fouled the ball with his sleeve, there were further manifestations of delight from the gallery. Schaefer only made four, however, from his companion's misfortune, and Vigneaux was cordially received when he advanced to play on his third inning, in which he made fifteen.

THE PLAYERS GET NERVOUS. The players get nerveus.

The balls were left in good condition for Schaefer, who made four and slipped up on an easy carom. Both players were evidently nerveus and played for positions, runs of 3, 6 2 for Vigneaux, and of 4, 1 and 0 for Schaefer attesting this fact. Then Schaefer got the balls as he wanted them, and played a series of mass shots in the middle of the table, banking the balls from time to time, until he had ing the balls from time to time until he had 35 to his credit, the last shot being a pretty kiss shot from one side of the table to the other. Then he made another run, stopping at his 39th shot, for a moment, to file and lather the tip of his cue. Then he went on and rolled the ivories from side to side until seventy seven buttons were pushed along by Budd Schofield. Vigenaux then played and made eighteen, but missed an easy shot from the cushion, apparently more from nervousness than any other reason. played pretty for twenty-six points, including one handsome masse, and omitted to get his halls out of the balk on the twenty-seventh shot, which he made, but which did not count. Vigenaux caromed pretty in his ninthinning, sending the ball completely across the table, kissing and returning. When he had made thirty points the game was even.

This thought seemed to nerve Vignaux, and he made two beautiful mass shots in succession, and then a bank shot, which elicted a burst of spontaneous approval, which was renewed when 50 was reached. At 55 a lovely bank shot against the lower right, hand corner mut the halls in the lower right-hand corner put the balls in good position. Then followed a series of ca-roms from the table centre until the balls be-came frozen on the 75th shot, out of which dilemma Vigneaux cleverly extricated himself by a well-executed stroke. At 77 points he equalled Schaefer's largest run for the evening, and was 47 points ahead on the total score. At the 97th shot an almost apparently impossible caron from the cushion with the odject balls on the centre of the table was loudly applauded, and there was more applauee when

THE HUNDRED MARK WAS EEACHED and successfully turned. This run notted 106 for Vigneaux. He was now ahead of his opfor Vigneaux. He was now ahead of his op-ponent 13 points on the play of the evening and 76 on the grand total. Schaefer in his 12th inning, by fine nursing, made97, and Vigneaux on his 14th made 35. At this time Schaefer was very nervous. He wiped his hand fre-quently with a handkerchief, and ner-vously fingered his cue. When was very nervous. He wiped his hand frequently with a handkerchief, and nervously fingered his cue. When his turn to play came, however, the nervousness disappeared, and shot followed shot, and ball followed ball around the table, until 31 was added to his score. Vigneaux hed the innings, and improved his time to the tune of 13 additional points. He left the balls all well accept as from in fact that Schools each all well apart, so far in fact that Schaefer only was able to score 2. But Schaefer left the balls so far apart that Vignaeux did not score at all.

SKIRMISHING WITH EACH OTHER. The giants skirm with each other, and made runs of 1 and 2 each when couning at all. Then Schaefer made 22 without difficulty, losing on what appeared to be a simple all around the table shot, with one object ball in the corner. In his twentieth inning he made a pretty bank shot, caroming on the balls in the center. Afterward clean shots, cushion caroms and back shots followed each other with bewildering variety, until 80 points were reached, when there was applause renewed. When 90 points were made until 100 points were reached, when the hall was filled with the sound of the tempest of cheers and hand clapping. No one shot of especial brilliancy had been made in the run, but every shot had been well and carefully played for.

RUNNING UP THE SCORE.

On and on went the "wizard," and point by piont his score continued to roll up to 150, when plaudits again filled the air. He finally stopped with the comforting number of 168 points, all made by careful play. Then things looked black for the Frenchman, and the score stood for the evening. Schaefer 530, Vignaux 268: The latter had the show, and imitated the textical of his correspond to which the state of his correspond to the state of his corresponding to the state of the tactics of his opponent by nursing. At times the balls would get separated, but bril-liant off-hand shots would bring them again together. At fifty points the applause was loud and liberal. So it was on the sixty-sixth shot, when the red object ball was forced around the table and back into position for the "set up," A magnificent masse on the seventieth shot, with the balls against the rail, elicited applause, and the perfection of english, with three balls direct in line, one with the other, cannot be described. Also the draw shot across the, table. Vigneaux made ninety-four on the run. He followed up with another run. When he had made fifty there was applause, but he went on with the same slow and careful way which had characterized all his previous play made 66 points. Schaefer had made 168 in his run of the twentieth inning, while Vigneaux, with his runs of 94 and 66 in the twenty-third and twenty-fourth innings came within 6 of that

THE WORK BECOMES CLOSE.

At 11 o'clock the total score stood, Schaefer 2,897, Vignaux 2,832. But it was close work, and Schaefer forced the pice with runs of 31 and 35, while Vignaeux made exactly 6 points. The Frenchman felt discouraged, as very naturally he would, when Schaefer Legan upon what proved to be his last inning, his ga'lic opponent watched with grim determination the rapidly receding hope of victory for which he had struggled long and well. One by one Schaefer caused the ivory spheres to click together amid the repressed excitement of the crowd. At fifty points the enthusiasm broke through the bounds, and when, with his fifty-eighth point, Schaefer completed the greatest and best game of billiards ever played, the spectators climbed, ran and jumped to where he stood, and shouts of triumph and congratulations were heard on all sides. THE WORK BECOMES CLOSE. to where he stood, and shouts of triumph and congratulations were heard on all sides. Schaefer had made 660 points on the night's play, and Vigneaux 438. The total score for the five nights, Schaefer; 3,000; Vigneaux, 2,638. Schaefer's average tonight 25 13-25; Vigneaux's average 16 23-36. Best runs, Schaefer—18, 767, 58, 35, 31, 26, 22; Vigneaux—106, 94. 66, 35, 26. Referee—Wayman McCreery, of St. Louis; scorer—Budd Schofield. Time of game two hours and fifty minutes. THE SCENE WHEN HE MADE HIS LATE SPEECH

The Halls Crowded, and Boyalty Present to Show Its Approval of the Premier's Course—The Poles Excited—Mr. Gladstone's Visit to Osborne -Other Foreign News of Interest,

BERLIN, January 30 .-- The debate in the ower house of the langtag, on Thursday, on the subject of the expulsion of the Poles from eastern Prussia, was listened to by an immense audience. The chamber was crowded to its utmost capacity, and outside the building there was a great crowd of people, who had been unable to gain admission. The box reserved for royalty was occupied by the prince of the royal family. Prince Bismarck gave a masterly historical survey of Prussia's rela-tions with the Poles. The allusion by the chancellor to the government's intention of appropriating the land of the members of the Polish nobility who live in Paris and Monoco, caused a tremendous uproar. On Friday, when the discussion was continued there was less interest manifested and the galleries were not so crowded as on the preceding day. The debate savored of party recrimina-tion. Herr Stableveski made a violent speech, in which he accused the government of waging day. a war of extermination against the Pole Prince Bismarck, in controverting the statements of Herr Windthorst, clerical leader, remarked that he wished Herr Windthorst had his (the chancellor's) place, adding that he had ounded the emperor on the subject of such change, but that the latter had declared he was too old to try such an experiment. This hit of the chancellor's was greeted with loud laughter.

The lower house of the landtag, after eight hours debate, adopted Herr Achenenboth's motion for the adoption of a resolution expressing satisfaction at the speech from the throne, premising measures for the protection of German interests in eastern Prussia. The announcement of the result the result of the vote was greeted with tumultuous ap-plause. The members of the center, the Pol-ish members and the new German liberals left the chamber before the division. Horr Richter submitted? a motion to refer to the budget committee the clause in Herr Achenbach's motion offering to grant funds to increase German educational advantages in the Polish provinces. The motion was rejected by a vote of 234 to 153. Herr Vischow then de-clared that, in view of the rejection of this motion, annulling as it did, the prescribed order of business, the new German liberals would not assist in another division. Here would not assist in another division. Herr Von Pulkamer, minister of the interior, in supporting Herr Achenbach's motion, denied that the government had been guilty of harshness in its treatment of the Poles, or that it entertained feelings of hatred toward them. CABINET SPECULATIONS.
All that can be said about the cabinet situation is that the political world suffers from a surfeit of gossip, conjecture and rumor. Listening to these while visiting the various crowded clubs one is reminded of a similar tour through the Washington hotels immediately prior to inauguration day. The most general rumor is that if the queen accepts the resignation Lord Coleridge, who is for Irish home rule, would be the lord chancellor; Mr. Chartes Russell, Q. C., attorney general, and Mr. Parnell a member of the cabinet. This last proposition was vehemently denied by many of the Irish members yesterday. Nevertheless the Telegraph begins its leader with the question, "will Mr. Parnell be a member of the new cabinet." The question sounds startling at first sight, yet we mean the inquiry in good faith. To devise a plant for home rule, and in it to ignore Mr. Parnell, is like inventing a machine and forgetting to make allowance for the friction. Our kinemen of the United States have taken into the federal cabinet ex-confederate officials. We gave over the government of Cauada, not merely to agitators, but to men who had fought us with arms." is that the political world suffers from a surfeit of not merely to agitators, but to men who had fought is with arms."

The News, in a double leaded leader, lectures the queen on the rumor which it says "we find is generally accepted in political circles, that she is insisting on Lord Salisbury remaining in office." It then alludes to another rumor that she will not send for Gladstone. The News hopes that she will not veast so marked a slight, not only upon a great statesman who has served her through half a century, but upon the public opinion emphatically expressed in the general electron." The News, aluding to the mention of Mr. Parnell in the cabinet, says, "if he accept office under the English government, his induence is gone."

WHAT THE PARNELLITES FEAR. The Parnellites fear that Gladstone will be com elled to form a compromise cabinet. Gladste had a conservace this evening with several promi-nent liberals. Ever since Brigham Young took posses of the Great Basin in the name of the Lord and organized the state of Deseret this imp has been going on. In the old days of wagon trains and handcarts these women had an apportunity to find out something about the slavery into which they were sold before they reached their destination, and, as the saints themselves say, the plains were strewn with the bones of women who proved too weak to bear the burdens of polygamy. Now, however, they are hurried along so rapidly by steamer and reilway that they have no time for reflection or repentance. Wives who had been in-duced to leave their husbands and "gather with the saints at Zion," mothers so completely under the influence of funations that they have abandoned their little children, and young girls who have been decoyed away from home, are shipped to America and transported across the continent to Utah with such dispatch that they are landed safely in Zion and sealed to some gray-haired saint before their families know what has become of them. A WRONGED HUSBAND. A WRONGED HUSBAND.

Three years ago, in response to a pitiful letter of entreaty from the bereaved parents, I made an unavailing search for two girls who had been brought to Utah by Mormon missionaries. While looking for these girls I found sionaries. While looking for these girls I found two young English women, sisters, who had stolen away from husband and home and joined the latest Mormon immigrant company. They had gone to the seaport from which this company sailed under the pretence of making a visit to a relative, and by the time that their husbands began to expect them home they were half way across the Atlantic. Each of the ways and by the lating high property and the prop women had brought a little child in her arms, and the husband of one of them, after he had found out where his wife had gone, wrote to "If you are resolved never to come back, if you will not even write a line to let me know why you have left me, at least let the baby make a mark on a sheet of paper and send i

Another woman, who had all the details of her flight arranged for her by the missionary who "converted" her, was hurried away from home by night, leaving a nursing babe behind her. She said-she did not realize what she was doing until the ship on which the immigrants embarked had set sail, and then for the time she lost her reason entirely. She became a polygamous wife as soon as she reached Utah, thus cutting herself off from all hope of returning to be home. She surely was not sane at ands have touched.' ing to her home. She surely was not sane at the time of her flight, and she can not be con-sidered so now. She says: "Ever since the dreadful day I set my foot on board that ship I have heard my baby crying. I can not get the sound out of my ears. I hear it everywhere and always."

A woman who lived in my family as a domestic told me she was persuaded to steal away from home in her husband's absence, carrying with her her little boy, their only child. The husband and father never held up his head after the day that he came back to his desolated home, and six months afterwards died, as his friends said, of a broken heart.

Mormonism ches that no gentile marriage contract i binding; consequently, when a woman em-braces the latter day faith she is told it is her duty to leave her unconverted husband and be scaled to a saint who can give her a place in the celestial kingdom. Children are also taught that they do not owe o parents who are not Mormons, and that it is their duty to forsake father and mother, when the way opens for them, "to gather with the

WHERE THE MONEY COMES FROM. The Perpetual Immigration Fund company incorporated by the Utah legislature in 1850 furnishes means to pay the passage of impecu nious immigrants. The treasury of this com-pany is enriched by the contributions of the faithful in this country and Europe, but it has not been forced to depend wholly on voluntary contributions. The legislature which created contributions. The legislature which created this company passed a law empowering the probate judge of each county to "take possession of all property left by deceased or absconding persons, when there is no claimant known or sufficiently near to see to it in season, and turn the same over to the Perpetual Immigration Fund company."

Thus it will be seen that when a man abscription of the property of the proper onded, that is, when he was hunted out of the territory by the Danites, his property re verted at once to this company. The above verted at once to this company. The above law was in force for many years, and during these years large tracts of the public domain were granted to the company by the legislature, the saints coolly ignoring the title of the United States to any portion of the country they claimed "by right of discovery." As a consequence the immigration company has grown rich and powerful, and is now well able to furnish transportation for all the women who can be induced to come to Utah as candidates. can be induced to come to Utah as candidates copy of a letter which he wrote today to colone Scott, in which he says:

"My letter to you of September 6, 1885, was purely private, and one from which General Fry had ne right to quote without my consent. But even after he had so quoted, if he had answered the editor." he had so quoted, if he had answered the editor's most courteons inquiry, at my instance, of December 5th, I could, in a paragraph, have changed the world "would" for "might," or have interlined "probably" to express more fully my meaning You are at liberty to make either of these changes in that letter and put it on your official file. What I take excention to is having Fry, who was never a confidant of General Grant or General Sherman, posing as the 'panegyrist of the former at the expense of the latter. When, in 1862-3, General Grant needed a friend I was that friend, and it seems odd that now, when General Grant needs in offiend, General Fry should step in to claim the privilege. Fry may do what he pleases. I will do the same."

AN UNPROVOKED MURDER.

The Bloody Conduct of Two Texan Officials -A Child Murdered.

DALLAS, Texas, January 30.—A great deal f excitement was created here today by the de-elopments touching the killing of Jesse Bonner velopments touching the killing of Jesse Bonner and other negroes last night, by Deputy sherid. Seely, of Pree Stone county, and Betective Duncan, of this city, who surrends red themselves last night. A visit to the scene of the shooting shows that Bonner's five-year old child was find through the forehead, and a negro. Robert Johnson, in the knee. The eridence of the inquest thus far tends to show that the shooting was entirely unprovoked. Bonner was sitting in his cabin with his child on his knee, whey the efficers burst in and commenced shooting. The negroes had no weapons. The witnesse testify that there were three white men in the party. One stood outside and shot Johnson as he ran dway. The belief is growing that the killing was a cold-blooded murder. The colored population are greatly agitated.

A Slanderer Punished.

COLUMBIA, S. C., January 30.-[Special.]-

COLUMBIA, S. C., January 30.—[Special.]—In Newberry county the negroes have an arterize fashion in dealing with offensive characters of their own race. The following article from the Observer tells how it is done:

"In the upper portion of this county a few days ago a farmer observed two of his colored employees starting off from home at night with a wagon whip and a plaw line. In inquiring their purpose he was told that a certain colored dude of the neighborhood had been making remarks derogatory to the character of a colored woman of the plantation, and they were going to thresh him for it. The employer told them they had better be careful or they might get find trouble and be carried to court, and they abandoned their intention. He thought no more of the matter until a night or two afterwards be heard a great rumpus, and going out saw and they abandoned their intention. Villainous Nostrum Dispensers and Their Criminal Work-The Pitiful Cries of the Victims-Startling Developments Unearthed-The Horrible Details in Full.

lainous nostrum dispensers is simply appalling. The evil consists in the persistent efforts of the proprietors of certain alleged blood poison remedies to entrap the unwary by fraudulent certificates causing the poor victim of blood poison to invest in their worthless compounds, who finally awakes to the sad realization that his money is all rone and the ravages of the dread disease consuming his life. These same parties also expend thousands of dollars annually in their vain hope of convincing people that iodide of potash, and other drugs such as enter into the physician's prescription are deadly poison, and at the same time cry-ing aloud "Imitators!" when in fact, none are to be found. B. B. B.—Battatic Blood Balm—contains, among other valuable ingredients, iodide of potash, and to convince those who may have any doubt on the subject, we submit the following original certificates-not bought-proving its wonderful efficacy. This company hold hundreds of testimonials from those who owe their existence

SPARTA, Ga., September 22, '85 .- To the Constitution, Atlanta; Were I to practice deception in a case like this, I would think that my heart had become seared beyond recognition.

To be guilty of bearing false testimony, thereby imperiling the lives of my fellow-men, would place me beneath the dignity of a gentleman. The facts which I disclose are indorsed and wohched for by the community in which I live, and I trust they may exert the influence intended. For twenty long years I have suffered untold tortures from a terrible pain and weakness in the small of my back, which resisted all modes and manner of treatment.

For a long time the horrifying pangs of an eating cancer of my lower lip has added to my misery and suffering. This encroaching, burning and painful sore on my lip was pronounced Epithelial Cancer by the prominent physicians in this section, which stubbornly resisted the best medical talent. About eighteen months ago a cutting, piercing pain located in the breast, which could not be allayed by the use of ordinary modes of treatment.

These sufferings of misery and prostration became so great that on the 18th of last July a leading physician said that I could not live longer than four days, and I had about given up in despair. The burning and excruciating ravages of the cancer, the painful condition of my back and breast, and the rapid prostration of my whole system combined to make me a mere wreck of former While thus seemingly suspended on a thread between life and death, I commenced the use of B. B. B., the grandest blood medicine to me and my household ever used.

The effect was wonderful-it was magical. The excruciating pains which had tormented me by day and by night for twenty years were soon held in abeyance, and peace and comfort were restored to a suffering man, the cancer commenced healing, strength was imparted to my feeble frame, and when eight bottles bad been wod, I was one of the harniest of men, and felt about as well as I ever

All pains had vanished, the cancer on my lip healed, and I was pronounced cured. To those who are afflicted and need a blood remedy, I urge the use of B. B., as a wonderfully effective, speedy and cheap blood purifier.

I have been taking B. B. B. seven weeks for a pain ful and eating sore on my neck, which was pronounced cancer, and I would not take one thousand dollars for the benefit already received. Various blood remedies had been previously used without the least benefit. From experience in my own case, and expressions from others who have been relieved, I am compelled to regard B. B. B. the best and most speedy blood purifier I ever used, and take pleasure in recommending it to others. I refer to any business man in town.

GAINESVILLE, GA., January 23, 1886.

W. JAY McDONALD:
DEAR SIR: I have had your Combined Fire and Water-Proof Cement Roof Paint on both my shingle and tin roofs for about two years, and so far it has held its own. I regard it as an excellent preservative of wood, and of great advantage as a protector in case of falling sparks of fire; also a first-rate cement to stop all cracks in timber. I am satisfied energetic men can make it profitable to handle this paint compound, for when it is well put on, especially on wood it is sure to prove a success. Wishing you continued and large success with your really valuable compound, I am stated the object of the meeting, and asked for some motion that would facilitate matters. Captain English moved that this meeting de clare that Atlanta should raise one hundred thousand dollars to insure the building of the Georgia Midland road to this point, and that every gentleman present, by a rising vote pledge his best efforts to that end. The motion was seconded by Mr. Hais, and a rising vote ordered by the chairman. Every gentleman present rose.

Colonel G. W. Adair then moved that a meeting of every citizen in Atlanta interested in the building of the Georgia Midland road be alled at the court house for Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. Colonel Adair in some forcible remarks urged the necessity of this road and the ease with which the money could be raised if veryeman would agree to do his duty. This motion was seconded, and carried.

Mr. Grady agreed with Colonel Adair as to the importance of the road, but said that since the committee had formally committed itself to the project, it was more important than ever nat should be carried to success. Atlanta

NEVER YET FAILED in anything she undertook. A review of her record would show that she had never set her head on getting anything that she did not get. When she was criticsed, and it was charged that her prosperity rested on a false basis, she could point to an unbroken record of successes. If she scored a failure now, at a critical time in her history, her prestige would be broken. She could not fail if her whole people just determined that the road must be

Mr. Joel Hurt said that many inquries had been made about the terms of the subscription. He found everybody willing to subscribe if they were certain that their interest would be protected, and their stock stand for just what it was worth. Captain English suggested that it might be well to prescribe that our money should be spent on our end of the line, and that Columbus money should be spent on their end.

Mr. Hoke Smith said: "I have subscribed five hundred dollars to the enterprise, which I am willing to give away to get the road from here to Columbus, but I would not give fifty dollars to get a road half way from here to Columbus. To spend our money on our end might leave our line about twenty miles from Atlanta unfinished. The subscription now provided that we should pay twenty-five per cent for every twenty miles southward from Atlanta, and that Columbus should spend twenty-five per cent on every twenty miles twenty-five per cent on every twenty miles northward from Columbus. Mr. J. G. Oglesby said: "If the wholesale Mr. J. G. Oglesby said: "If the wholesale merchants of this city were satisfied that the road would deal fairly with Atlanta, they will subscribe with a liberality that will be surprising. If they are satisfied that the subscription will be handled for the good of Atlanta, and the whole line they will subscribe." Mr. Oglesby then moved for the appointment of a committee of seven which should take charge of the arrangements for Tuesday night, and provide speakers, a programme, and a heading for the lists. That the chairman of the meeting should be chairman of the committee.

Lemons as Medicine.

A TLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 7. †885.—Dr. MOZLEY
Allow me to thank you for the bottle of Lemon Elixir. It proved all and more than fyou claimed for it. It acts like a charm on the liver, stomach and bowels gives a check to nervousness, and produces what I craved most, viz: pleasant and refreshing rest at night. I cordially recommend your remedy as a delightful tonic in all cases of indigestion, biliousness and nervous prestration.

Editor and proprietor Sunday Telegram.

After a great many trials of the first physicians in the north and south, I had grown exhausted by the continued experimental efforts of doctors to cure me of chronic Laryngitis and Bronchitis of a most severe type. A friend advised me to try Dr. Mozley's Lemon Hot Drops, which I did, snd, to my surprise, after taking the first bottle, it gave me complete relief. I then bought three more bottles, which cured my case entirely of eight years standing.

HOME TESTIMONY—WHAT MAJOR W. F. Slaton, superintendent public schools, Atlanta, Georgia, has to say of Zell's Encyclopedia. Read certificate below. Atlanta, Ga., January 19, 1886. I have made a careful examination of the distinctive features of Zell's Encyclopedia, and have the pleasure to report as follows: The Encyclopedia proper contains a synopsis of the subjects treated in greater detail by the more expensive encyclopedias. Its ductionary, gazetteer of the world, and its atlas are complete, and, so far as I can secorrect. These features form a combination "embracing the whole round of learning." which, togother with the analysis and classified index, so arranged that any subject embraced in the Encyclopedia may be studied and exhausted, make it arranged that any subject embraced in the Ency-clopedia may be studied and exhausted, make it the best work for general reference that has come under my examination. I heartily commend it to the teachers and scholars desiring an invaluable work. (Signed.) W. F. Slaton, Supt. Schools. MEDIUM-G. H. A TLANTA, GA., DECEMBER I, 1884. W JAY MoA Donald: Dear Sir—It affords me great pleasure to testify to the satisfaction which your Proof Paint has given me. I am afflicted with a large old flat tin roof, one which has leaked incessantly for the past five years, although I have spent enough money painting it to pay for a new roof five times over, and never before have I found a paint which I consider has done me the real service which your Combined Fire and Water Proof and Cement Paint has. My roof has stood the ordeal of the last heavy rains and not adrop has come through. Also, an old paper roof which you painted for me has not let a drop through. With pleasure I volunteer this testimouy, and hope it may be useful to you. Very respectfully, John Keely.

Gladstone's Third Term.

The fall of the Salisbury ministry was so natural and so generally expected and discounted that the markets were not affected by the announcement, and the event was not considered of unusual interest. Of course no tory cabinet could stand alongside of the present parliament except by sufferance and when the cabinet gave notice that it would introduce a bill to suppress the national league, the liberals and home-rulers came together over an incidental question, and the ministry at once resigned, and Mr. Gladstone was again asked to become the real ruler of the empire that the sun never the fate of the tory cabinet, constitutes a very important departure in British politics. Mr. Collins is one of Mr. Chamberlain's lieutenants, and, if possible, is more of a radical than his chief. Mr. Collings's resolution involves "the three acres and a cow" idea otherwise known as the allottment plan. Mr. Gladstone advocated the plan in a speech in the house of commons, and it was adopted by a vote of 329 to 259. The plan thus sanctioned by the dominant party looks to the taking of land compulsorily in any part of the kingdom at its fair value for the purpose of letting it in small holdings, to now landless agricultural laborers at a moderate rental, the government to advance the purchasing price, and the rent to be fixed by an impartial tribunal.

This plan of dealing with the land question was opposed by some of the landowing or very rich whigs, but the majority of the liberals was only three less than the majority of the liberals over the conservatives. The home-rulers came up solidly, and very few liberals refused to follow Mr. Gladstone The whole tendency of the vote is towards radicalism, both in respect of legislation and the control of the new cabinet. Mr. Gladstone need not look to the whigs if he can retain the home rulers. He need not ask whigs to take office, whom he does not want.

e is tree to let Lord Hartington and Mr. Sorchen and others of like views remain out of office. To the radicals and the homeulers, he must chiefly look for support.

Of course his great trouble in office will relate to the Irish question. He has the Parnellites and the moderate liberals to please, and the task is not an easy one. His programme has not been announced, but it is not probable he will bring in a bill for an Irish parliament. He will be more apt to undertake a settlement of the land question. Justice to Ireland in some shape and to some extent is of course involved in a continued support of the new cabinet by the Parnellites. What it will be, how far it will go, or whether it will be acceptable to the people of both England and Ireland, remain to be seen. It is sate to assume that Mr. Gladstone would not accept office if he did not think he could offer the country a plan that would be satisfactory to the new combina-

Now, Let Us Get to Work.

The movement for securing the Georgia Midland for Atlanta has begun in earnest. About this movement two things may be

1st. This movement has not been resolved upon hastily. Three meetings have been held at THE CONSTITUTION office during the week. The first was merely preliminary and casual. The second was composed of the stockholders who had already subscribed. The third was made up of citizens of every class, and was presided over Mr. E. P. Chamberlin. At all the meetings the situation was discussed frankly and fully. Merchants, manufacturers, real estate men. capitalists and professional men taking part. The pressing need of the road, the difficulty of raising the money at present, were duly considered. At the third meeting, and not until then, it was decided that the money must be raised. The deliberation with which this decision was reached, and the heartiness with which it was adopted, means that the movement will not be abandoned unfil the money is raised, or until every effort is exhausted and the conclusion is forced that Atlanta has scored her first fail-

2d. To make this movement successful, there must be thorough unity and co-operation. This is foreshadowed in the card of the wholesale merchants which we print elsewhere this morning. That is a remarkable card-both in the friendly appeal it carries, and in the weight of the names attached to it. It may be said that these latter represent the commerce of Atlanta. But one single merchant declined to sign it-and had there been more time the list would have been doubled. The challenge issued by the wholesale merchants to the real estate owners is in no sense an unfriendly one. It is rather an appeal for the coming together and co-operation of both classes in the carrying out of a great move and the furtherance of Atlanta's prosperity. It is true that the merchants have less immediate interest in the proposed road than the real estate owners. Falling rents are the first results of depression. While Mr. Oglesby and Mr. Haas testified to the prosperity of Atlanta's commerce, Mr. Adair and Mr. Goode bore witness that rents were already showing symptoms of decline. The merchants, however, realizing that what prospers Atlanta prospers all her citizens, come forward and ask the real estate owners to join hands with them in forwarding this great enterprise.

With the co-operation of all classes, which now seems assured, the money will be mptly raised, Atlanta's prestige confirm ed, a new territory opened up to her trade, and future growth and prosperity put beyond peradventure. Without this co-operation, even the overburdening of one class will not suffice to carry the enterprise to prompt and full success. Let every man who feels an interest in the matter, come to the meeting on Tuesday night.

The Pending Pension Bill,

Mr. Crisp certainly expressed the views of the people of this state when he spoke against the policy of increasing the rate of pensions and of repealing the limitation on the arrears of the pension act. Speaking for the people he represented he said they were in favor of just and reasonable pensions. but farther than that they were unwilling to go-farther than that they were not able to go. Mr. Crisp's position will be unanimously indorsed by the people of this state.

Mr. Black, commissioner of pensions, has made a careful estimate of the cost of the two propositions now before congress with strong political support attached. The first one proposes to increase the pensions of widows and dependent relatives of soldiers from $8 to $12 a month. This proposition. Mr. Black says, will add $6,000,000 to the annual appropriation for pensions. An extension of the limitation of the arrears act would place nearly every living soldier of the union armies on the pension lists, through of course a great deal of loose legislation and hard swearing. Commissioner Black estimates the cost of such an extension at $302,836,200. The arrears act has already cost the country $179,000,000, and when all pending claims are adjusted the total cost will be $259,000,000. To open the doors again would more than double this amount, and increase the annual pension charge to $75,000,000. No matter how much the democratic party may need votes in certain states, we un hesitatingly say that such a scheme of extravagant and unprecedented expenditure should not have the support of any southern representative. The resources of the south cannot support such burdens, and without reference to party needs every southern member should set his face against a scheme that will rob his own people to enrich, not maimed and deserving soldiers, but a host of hard swearers and unscrupulous pension attorneys. Every man honestly entitled to a pension long ago obtained one, and these

The catalogue for the sale is now being prepared, and will embrace many very fine animals.

It says: "Mr. Moody has closed his series of meetings at Chicago and started south, with his friend Sankey, to conduct similar meetings at Kuoxville, Chat-tanooga, Nashville, Memphis, New Orleans and the chief cities in Texas. It was observed at Chicago that the now eminent evangelist shows no signs of exhaustion, and no symptoms of being "played out," after nearly twenty years of almost constant preaching. His sermons are marked by the same plain, blunt directness, and his manner by the same earnestness as in the beginning, and the attendance of the common people on his meetings is as large as

Two Missing Heirs Establish Their Iden tity.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., January 30.—Bridget Blank, of Chester, has, on her own behalf and as committee of an insane brother, recovered a verdict against two other brothers who, some years igo, divided their mother's estate, valued at $300, between them. Catharine Rooney, to who estate belonged, died in 1872. Two of her so the estate belonged, died in 1872. Two of her sons lived in Shenandoah, and as they could not learn anything of the missing brother and sister took it for granted that they were dead. John Rooney had gone into the army at the outbreak of the war, and after its close enlisted as a regular. Bridget, the other child, went to Philadelphia, where she married James Bowse, and after his death moved to Chester courty and there married Nicholas Blank, her present husband. An advertisement of Mayor King, of Philadelphia, came under her notice in 1883.

John had come out of the army an imbebile from wounds in the service. She had him in an asylum when she applied for her portion of the estate. The two brothers refused to believe her, and today's suit, with its favorab, everdict, was the result.

The matter was referred to the secretary of the treasury by the collector of the port, and a fine of fifty dollars was imposed upon the vessel, which was paid and the clearance papers granted.

When Pierce was living in Fort Worth Miss Morgan Long, of Atlanta, was there. Pierce was then in business with Miss Long's brother-in-law, and in this way she frequently met Pierce. While Miss Long was in Fort Worth Mrs. Weaver visited Fort Worth and claimed Pierce as her husband. It was at that time that Pierce was fined. Yesterday Miss Long called upon Mr. Brown and stating what she knew asked for Mrs. Weaver's address. The young lady obtained the address, and calling at Mrs. Weaver's boarding house met her.

"How are you?" responded Mrs. Weaver, not identifying her callers.

"You don't appear to know me. I met you in Fort Worth," said the lady.

Miss Long then recounted to Mrs. Weaver some incidents connected with that lady's visit to Fort Worth, and told her the names of her children, who were with her. Mrs. Weaver remembered the incidents referred to. Later in the day Miss Long agreed to go to the cemetery and to look at the dead body. She was accompanied by Mr. Brown and Mrs Weaver, and as soon as she looked at Pierce's face she said:

"That is the man who was known in Fort Worth as J. W. Pierce and. who was in business with my brother-in-law. He is the same one that Mrs. Weaver then claimed as her husband."

Jake Dart was for the sit has been since, has never produced the equal lots, and the Hon. Tom Eason stood by the lumbermen and shipowners. The fight was furious and and the Hon. Tom downed the Hon. Jake by a sort of dog fall. The supreme court, however, decided that what the pilots wanted to make the law is the law already. So that next summer we may look for a revival of the struggle with the burden of preof, so to speak, on the Hon. Tom.

The case is a curious one. Indeed, the pilots ride the seas in obedience to some very curious laws Say that a ship is coming into Darien. As she nears the harbor she is spoken by a pilot who comes bobbing up in his little boat; for some reason she "re-fuses" him, and goes in without him. He follows her at his leasure and collects his fees, just as if he would have done had she accepted him. But if the accepts him to take her into port, he is also entitled to fees for piloting her out. Mr. Dart wanted the legislature to enact that even if she refused him he should collect fees both ways. The legislature refused. Now the supreme court says the law al ready entitles him to fees both ways.

The United States supreme court will be asked very soon to review the constitutionality of all piotage laws as far as they relate to coastwis eamers. Judge H. B. Tompkins has been employ ed by certain shipowners to carry up a case on which the whole system depends, and to argue it before that tribunal. A bill has been introduced in congress to repeal all pilotage laws. The adventurous fellows who ride the bounding billows along our coast will have to fight for their ex-

Mr. George Zimmerman, of Lake Ivara, Fla. rays: "Many of the orange groves in Florida are heavily mortgaged. If the ground has been frozen ix inches deep, the roots of the trees are killed, and the result will be very disastrous.

Mr. Zimmerman said further, "No man ever had righter prospects than St. Clair Abrams in Floida. He owned a thriving young city, had three law offices with immense practice, and was the political ideal of the second district. In politics e was so impetuous that he estranged many riends, and created needless antagonisms. In financial affairs he spread out too rapidly and ran to shoaly water, and these things in turn curtailed his practice. He is a man of immense force. lowever, and will retrieve his temporary backsets."

Let me try a purely local joke. You know Dr. Crenshaw, the popular dentist? Think of his face learefully for a moment and then follow me. Sometime ago the doctor went to Saul's restaurant to board a month. Saul heard his statement and said to his waiter: "This is Professor Bass and I want you to take good care of him." The doctor smiled and went in to dinner. The next day he I am not Professor Bass; I am John C. Whitner. Saul laughed, said he really could hardly tell at first whether he wass Bass or Whitner, but he would change the account on his books to Whitner. The next day the doctor said; might be awkward if you sent your bill to the wrong man. I'm not Whitner; I am Green Dodd. Why, Mr. Dodd, I declare I thought it was you at The next day Saul was watching for him. "How said Crenshaw, "who I am. This thing has gone far enough, though. I am not Mr. Dodd; I am Dar nell, formerly deputy United States attorney here. The next day Saul stood on the sidewalk waiting for his good-looking boarder. He caught a policeman Who is that coming up the street there "That is Dr. Strickler, the Presbyterian preacher."
"Of course it is," said Saul, as he hurried to meet him 'Ah, Dr. Strickler, I've got you right at last." Dr. not Dr. Strickler. My name is Crenshaw. I'm the dentist just down the street." And witnes ing up, this curious chain of resemblances was really ended.

Mrs. Mary E. Bryan has won the full recognition in the best literary circles of New York, to which her fine ability and achievements entitle her. It will be a leng time befere an American woman writes a better novel than "Manch."

I have great respect for the Georgia bloodhoune even though he is not a bloodhound. I saw lately some examples of his skill in trailing men that were marvellous. But the Georgia bloodhound received a black eye this week, in the matter of Tobe Jackson. This alleged dynamiter was track ed through about thirty miles of mountain and ravine by a $2,000 bloodhound. The singgish but persistent beast hung on the vanishing track brough storm and darkness, relentless as death itself. This was very heroic. But mark the sequel One afternoon when the chase had flagged, the pursuers of the redoubtable Jackson, saw, silhohetted against the summit on an inaccessable mountain peak a haughty man with a rope on his arm followed by a very meek dog, with a rope around his neck, stalking across the red sky to a quiet retreat. The man was Jackson-the dog was the $2,000 bloodhound that had trailed, not wisely but too well.

The appearance of John Templeton, at the head of the last Mikado troupe recalls the barn-storming period of theatricals that succeeded the war. It was then, that gruff old John played Lucretia Borgia with only Alice and Isabel Vane, as assistants. He called in his doorkeeper, to play the corpses with which that cheerful play abounds, "You fill the coffins," said he as the curtain bell rang, "and I'll attend everything in breeches that's alive!" It was then too that Rose and Harry Watkins played Kathleen Mavourneen, and audiences sat spell-bound as the lovely Rose was chased round pasteboard rocks, by indigenous ruffians whose local flavor was lost in wigs and whiskers and boots. It was then that the elder Crisp was playing a really superb Macbeth in tarnished harness, and paralyzing inferior Macduffs on revised Bosworth fields in the very eeth of Shakspeare. It was then that pretty Hannah Bailey went about rallying the you eorgia under the pink banners that fluttered in her modest cheeks, and filling the night air with enatches of gosling serenades as she sat conning her lines behind the dimity curtains of her room at the hotel. How pretty she was! I myself offered up a quavering solo at her shrine one dark night. Owing to the crowded state of the hotel yard I could not get near her window. Leaning firmly gainst the pump, I lifted my song over three clothes lines, a wood pile, a hip roof and a woodshed Some of my voice got there and some did not. She heard it. And after assuring herself by critical at tention, as she told me next day, that it was not a end, she came to the window with her book in hand, pushed the curtain aside till her slender figure was disclosed, and gazed tenderly in direction of the pump. A foolish mist filled my eyes, my voice choked, the ghost on the clothe lines futtered in the wind—and she wasgone. Ah, how delicious are the—but halt! What sort of stuff is this to be writing, even in the gossiping corner of a great news paper. Yesterday one of the editors of THE CONSTITU TION read aloud in the editorial rooms, and read well too, a chapter in the Bible. It was read from the songs of Solomon in furtherance of an argument. The effect was surprising. Under the contrast Emerson was stilted, artificial, wordy, "I have tried that experiment often, and the result is always a surprise. News-A Brilliant Season. The Atlanta baseball team is filled. During the past week four pitchers have been signed. Kimber, Conway, Shaffer, and Mitchell. Kimber will be remembered as the great pitcher of the Richmonds of last year who won the pennant for that club, and of the Brooklyns the year before. Conway pitched last season for the Buffalos, and is a first class man. Shaffer pitched for the Lockha-vens last year and was earnestly sought by the Athletics but objected to signing with a professional team. He is one of the wonders of the profes-sion. Mitchell played with the Sanduskies, and beat the Detroits several times. Manager Schmelz tried to secure him last year when he got Silch but he refused to come south. he refused to come south. The pitchers are strong The four pitchers will make Atlanta's box one of the strongest in the country.

There has been some change in the engagements already annuounced. Hardy and Donahou, the California players, declined to come after they had accepted terms, being unwilling to leave the Pacific slope. Gunson has been employed to take Hardy's place as short stop. This is Gunson's first seeson as a professional, but he is recommended very highly, and Mr. Ryan thinks he has a treasure in him. An offer has been made for Stricker, the great second baseman of the Athletics, to play second base, and it was thought that he was signed on yesterday. If he was Peak and Lyons will be tried on third base, and the man that playsit best will hold it permanently. The club will then stand: Kimber, Conway, Shaffer, and Mitchell, pitchers; Lyons or Peak, third base; Purcell, Bradley and Mooze, fielders.

Mr. Steve Ryan said on last night, "I am well satisfied with the club. We nave closed dates with Chicago, Pittsburg, Louisville and Detroit, for three games each prior to our season and I put on record now the opiniod that we will be beat half of the twelve games, we play with these clubs. So has Krehmier and Andrews. "Has the club raised all the money that i

"Has the Club raised all the money that I needed?"
"Not quite, but we have definitely declined Columbus's proposition and will go ahead and try to raise the balance during the week. We will send out George Carr to-morrow to collect the subscriptions already made, and hope they will be promptly met. The other clubs are at work, and getting into shape. We must be ready to meet them. The work on the ground is getting on finely, and we look for a season of first-class sport."

The Atlanta Wheelmen Anlanta has eighteen bievele riders and three tricycle drivers. Some of the bicyclists are said to be almost equal to professional riders. They are now organizing a club.

The bicyclists want the base ball directors to give them a track on the base ball ground.

Several new machines have been ordered within the past few days.

Persons who can not ride a bicycle and wish to do so will be given instructions by any of the proposed club. Homer Reid is said to be the best rider in the city while Joe Rapp is the most graceful.

Suspicious Characters. Last night Mounted Officer Green, in response to a telephone message, visited 140 Davis street. There he found two young men whose ar-rest was requested by citizens. The two men had been loading around that portion of the city for three or four hours and acting in a suspicious man-ner. The officers arrested the men and con-ducted them to police headquarters, where they were locked up. They gave their names as Arthur Stanley and George Moore. Stanley de-clines to talk. Moore says, however, that Stanley is from Chattanoors, and that he has two brothers in jail charged with burglary.

April 3d.

"Do you smoke?" asked the doctor as he took two good eigars from the northwest pocket of his vest.

The news man took a cigar while the doctor retained one. The news man drew out a knife and carefully cut the end of his Havana, while the preacher without ceremony bit off the end of his own cigar, struck a match and in a moment leaned far back in an easy chair, and looking ear-nestly at the ceiling, half closed his dark brown eyes and sent the smoke upward with

"I feel like brightening up with a smoke," said the doctor, as he made a few more drafts on the cigar.

THE CONSTITUTION followed suit and for a moment the two men smoked in silence. The sound of the violin and piano continued to come from the parlor near by. A moment more and it stopped.

AN ANNUAL CONCERT. "Do you play on any musical instrument?" earnestly asked The Constitution, turning to the preacher. Dr. Hawthorne paused in his smoke straightened up in his chair and said:

"I perform once a year. Every Christmas morning before breakfast it is my habit to olay "Auld Lang Syne" and "Praise God From Whom all Blessings Flow."

"Yes, I did go against a certain charity ball" with an emphasis on "certain."
"My special opposition to that ball," continued the doctor, "was that it was given in a time of great religious interest in the city, when all good people were trying to turn the thoughts of men into religious channels and my fear was that the charity ball would help to defeat us in that endeavor."
"Suppose a different state of affairs had existed?"

"I should oppose another upon this ground: I don't believe that charity should be connected with anything of that sort. It should not be associated with a public ball. I don't be-

The modern round dances I believe to be abominations. They are indelicate, and according to the testimony of thousands who have patronized them, they are suggestive of evil."

There was a pause, and THE CONSTITUTION asked:

asked:
"Doctor, did you ever say if prohibition was defeated God was a myth?"
"I never said any such thing. Let me show you what I did say," answered the doctor, putting on a pair of spectacles and drawing out a scrap book. "I said this (reading) 'If these dens of vice should be closed and the people of Atlanta are not more prosperous, happy and contented two years hence

"What you did say was ve y strong language."

"Prohibition is on trial now; would you repeat it?"
"I would. I never was more confident than I am today. My own private correspondence confirms my belief. Atlanta shares in the general depression, but when there is a general revival of trade she will experience the greatest boom in her history."
"By the way," said the doctor, "I see that Moody is coming here."
"Yes, do you know him?"
"Yes, he is a wonderful man. The first impression he makes on you is that he is a man of great physical power and endurance, and the next impression you receive is that he is a man with a mission. He is totally untike Sam Jones."
"What do you think of Jones?"

"What do you think of Jones?"
"Jones and Small are both very remarkable men. I would not, however, adopt Sam Jones's style- if I could. There are many things in it that are objectionable to me."
"En interpoo".

"For instance?"

"Well, he uses slang phrases, and that, I think, quite objectionable; but the man is so strong intellectually and spiritually that he is grandly useful in spite of the defects in his manner and methods. I believe him to be a thoroughly sincere man and feel confident that he is doing a west deal to strengthen the cause he is doing a vast deal to strengthen the cause of morality and pure religion. SAM SMALL is a man of more culture and graces, a more fluent and felicitous speaker, but not equal to Jones in originality, in will power and in intensity of spirit. Mr. Moody makes a great many rhetorical and grammatical mistakes, but the most fastidious hearer after listening to the man for thirty minutes avoid.

"Speaking about style, do you read anything with a view to style?" asked the newspaper

"I have made a study of Macauley's style," said the doctor. "Of the English prose writers he is my favorite."

Do you read Shakspeare?"
Yes, a great deal."

"lo you read much poetry?"
"Yes, the poem that I have studied most and have most thoroughly incorporated into my mental self is Homer's Hiad. I am particularly familiar with Pope's translation of it. Of the English poems of modern times my favorite Byron's Childe Harold."

The doctor paused a momeot and added:

"If I am," said Dr. Hawthorne, "it is very slight. Nathaniel is an old family name. I had an uncle named Nathaniel Hawthorne. About the middle of the last century there were three brothers who came from Scotland to this country. One settled in New England, one in Pennsylvania and one in Virginia. My greatgrandfather came from that Virginia family."

family."

"Doctor," said the Constitution, "do you have to watch yourself to keep from preaching semething that is not Baptist doctrine?"

"Ipreach Baptist doctrine, but I don't call it Baptist doctrine," was the reply. "No one believes more firmly than I in the great distinctive principles of the Baptist denomination, but I don't believe it is wise to be all the time throwing these things into the faces of people, nor in magnifying them to the neglect of those great evangelical truths to which Christian denominations generally subscribe. I have always given emphasis to what are called the moralities of emphasis to what are called the moralities of Christianity. I have no confidence in any religious faith or religious experience that does not show itself in a life of purity and honesty. I have tried wherever I have preached to convince people that orthodoxy and religious cestacy are worthless without moral rectitude in the every-day transactions of Hfe." HOW HE WORKS.

"Tell me something about how you do your "Tell me something about how you do your work?"
"A minister has no Sunday," said the doctor. "He has no day of rest. Monday is more of a day of rest to me than is any other day, because I make it a point not to study on Monday, but to visit and to attend to my correspondence. Tuesday morning I go into my study, and select a subject for my next Sabbath morning's sermon, and make a brief analysis of the subject. I spend the rest of the day and evening in reading with special reference to that subject, in thinking reference to that subject, in thinking about it and in gathering up material for the sermon. Wednesday and part of Thursday I write my sermon day and part of Thursday I write my sermon or at least I write a little more than half of it. I then lay it aside until Saturday and begin on my Sunday night sermon and spend from seven until twelve o'clock, making myself familiar with it, studying all around the subject, and in accumulating a great deal more material than I expect to use. In speaking one of the greastest inspirations to me is a consciousness of a reserved force—a consciousness that what I say upon the occasion is only a fragment of what I could say. Sunday afternoon I work on my Sunday night sermon the same way."

THOROUGH PREPARATION NECESSARY.
"You prepare thoroughly?"
"Yes, if I have accomplished anything in the ministry that is worthy of consideration I attribute it to the stress I have put upon special preparation for the pulpit. During a ministry of thirty-seven years I have never allowed myself to go before the public without careful and elaborate preparation, and I find that it is impossible for me to meet the demands of my congregation and do much pastoral work Any man who does much pastoral work will fail comparatively in much pastoral work Any man who does much pastoral work will fail comparatively in the pulpit, and the man who makes thorough preparation for the pulpit will fail in pastoral work. Of course I visit the sick of my congregation."

The doctor added: I have spent hours sometimes in coining a half dozen sentences of my sermon, because those sentences were to be the climaxes of the

Mrs. E. J. Wilson has filed a bill in equity against Pleasant A. Goldin.

Mrs. Wilson claims that in January, 1867, she became the owner of 300% acres of land. originally Henry now Fulton county. The land was given her by her father. After his death Goldin endeavored to make her believe that she was entitled to only one half the land and that the other heirs were entitled to the other half. She knew the will and knew that it was her land. He told her that if she did not consent to give up the land he would take the matter to court any make it cost her all the land was worth. He resorted to fraudulent and violent means to oust her from possession of the land. After a time he persuaded the other heirs to appoint him as their agentlo look after the land. As soon as this authority was vested in him he was worse than ever in harrassing and distressing her. One day Mrs. Wilson went with the hands to a certain field to sow wheat, when she found Goldin there ploughing in wheat. He told Mrs. Wilson to getout of the field, that it was his land and he didn't want her on it. She was unable to resist and left the field fearing bodily harm. Goldin has continued to worry the lady ever since, and she now asks the court for protection. The case is set for hearing in March. against Pleasant A. Goldin.

The value of an advertisement in The Constitution was never better illustrated than in the engagement of Katie Putnam, which closed last night. Following Emma Abbott, the Mikado and Monte Cristo, and preceding Janish and Fanny Davenport, the outlook for her was gloomy. Her agent put a full page advertisement in The Con-STITUTION for two days, and the result was that she played, in spite of the disadvantages mentioned, to three times the largest business she ever had in Atlanta. Her matinee was one of the largest ever seen here. Ladies were crowded in the second gallery clear back to the wall. Every seat down stairs was taken, every inch of standing room oc-cupied back to the wall. The charming little ac-tress made a bold bid foo crowds and she got them.

A Hasty Marriage in the Ordinary's Office Last Evening.

There was a sensational marriage at the ordinary's office last evening. Several days ago Warren Justice persuaded a six-teen-year-old girl named Bertha Mathews, daugh-ter of George Mathews, living near South Bend, to teen-year-old girl named Bertian Matnews, daugniter of George Mathews, living near South Bend, to leave her, home and come to Atlanta with him. The neighbors felt outraged and persuaded the girl's father to have a warrant taken for Justice. This was done, and yesterday Constable Prickett, of South Bend, came to Atlanta with a few of the neighbors and Mr. Mathews. Justice was found at work for Hunnicutt & Bellingrath. The warrant was shown him and he was told that he must marry the girl. He offered little or no objection, and told them where the girl could be found. At five o'clock the wedding party arrived at the ordinary's office, and after a few minuted delay Justice to store told Justice to take the girl's hand. He grabbed it, and in less than a jiffy they were made man and wife, and received the constitutions of those present.

Talking to a reporter just before the ceremony. The girl said in her plain, simple way:

"We were going to marry tonight, anyhow. He has been at one boarding house, and I have been at one boarding house, and I have been at another. I know he likes me 'cause he said so,' and she laughed like the question of marrying was a huge loke.

"It is said that he had a mock ceremony performed?"

"Er what?"

"Er what?"
"A mock marriage."
"It ain't so. He just fetched me up here and said we would get married in a few days."
Justice said: "I intended to marry the girl. It's the old women's tongues which has caused this trouble. I guess everything is all right now," and he picked up his bucket and followed his blushing bride.

He had crossed the threshold of manhood, but had not gone many miles on life's voyage ere he was assailed by that dreadful disease for which the science of medicine has offered no cure, consumption. He was a great sufferer for months but bore his affliction with the fortitude of one who has faith in God and a hope beyond the grave of a home and rest, where pain is not known.

He passed quietly and peacefully to rest, sur-

I write to state my opinion of GUINN'S PIONEER BLOOD RENEWER as a blood medicine and the effect it has had on myself and others. Words can hardly express all I would like to say, but for years I suffered the most exerutiating pain from rheumatism and pains arising from disordered condition of blood before using the Blood Renewer, being for months unable to walk or move my lower limbs. After commencing the use of the Blood Renewer I found such relief I continued to use it until I had taken about one-half gallon; and it has now been two years or more since I have used it, and have since suffered very little—nothing, comparatively speaking. I have also furnished several persons with the Blood Renewer, and each of them experienced great relief from the use of it.

We are unable to say anything about business re-vival this week further than that the public is man-ifesting an earnest purpose to bring it about by working in harmony with "a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether."

The Georgia Midland presents an opportunity, and we do not hesitate to say that we believe Atlanta will, now that our people realize the necessity upon them, raise the amount necessary to assure the building of the road quicker than a like sum was ever taised before. The possibilities for good in this road to Atlanta and Columbus, as well as the communities along the line, are incalculable, and the sooner the road is built the sooner will we realize the benefits which await us. Estimating the cost the benefits which await u5. Estimating the cost at $1,200,000, the stock subscriptions will pay at least $200,000 of that sum, and the remainder should be readily raised by an issue of bonds, which will, under proper management, make a safe investment for idle capital, of which there is an ample supply just now. The Georgia Midland will, to some extent, compete with other lines already completed, but largely draw its support from a new and undeveloped section.

Securities are in the same old rut, demand for first class investments being fully up to or in excess of Attanta and west round detectates are in constant demand, and if the mortgage feature was attached to them, or they had a longer time to run, they would readily command a higher price, but, being payable at the option of the company in 1891, the probability of a further advance in them is not great. Atlanta and West Point stock does not show the strength expected of it, and is now quiet and rather inactive at quotatiens. Central railroad stock is in the quiet list too, but

Central railroad stock is in the quiet list too, but debentures are in good demand.

All classes of state bonds are readily taken at prices giving 43/46/1/2 per cent return on the investment. Georgia railroad 6s of all maturities, Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta 7s and Central railroad joint mortgage 7s find buyers when offered. Georgia Pacific firsts have experienced a slight decline, and do not hold as firmly as their older brethren, but after a while will be better appreciated.

Tobe Jackson Still at Large.—Tobe Jackson, the Cartersville dynamiter, is still at large. The day after Detective Simpson returned from the chase, two members of the police force ascertained, as they thought, Jackson's hiding place. That night they left quietly, and scoured the country for Jackson, but without finding him. They returned to the city last night, and are now trying to keep their mission a secret.

CAN CHINAMEN BECOME CITIZENS?—On yesterday Judge John D. Cunningham, as attorney for Le-Hoy-Ting and three other natives of the celestial empire, who desired to forever renounce all allegiance to his majesty, the king of China, and become citizens of this great republic presented petitions for their great republic, presented petitions for their naturalization. TRYING TO COMPROMISE.—A. F. Pickert, the jeweler at No. 5 Whitehall, is now trying to effect a compromise with his creditors at twenty-five cents on the dollar. It will be remembered that Mr. Pickert made an assignment about the first of January and that some of his creditors through Mr. Walter R. Brown, of his creditors through Mr. Walter R. Mr. Pickert has a representative now in the north circulating among his creditors asking for signatures to the compromise at twenty, five cents on the dollar promise at twenty-five cents on the dollar.

ALEXANDER OWENS ON THE MUSCLE.— Alex Owens was given a cell in the city prison yesterday afternoon again. Owens created quite an excitement before reaching the rest-ing place he is now holding. Early in the afternoon Owens went to a room over Robert-son's saloon on Pryor street and raised a row. A messenger was sent to police headquarters for an officer and Patrolman Thompson re-sponded. Owens declined to submit to arrest and a tusle ensued. The noise made by the two men attracted the attention of Officer Green who joined in. Owens fought hard as he was carried through the street and yelled loud enough to attract the attention of people for blocks around. He was, however, finally landed behind the bars and was booked for drunk, disorderly conduct and resisting an officer.

THE ARTESIAN WELL.—The final test of the a tesian well was completed last night by the waterworks committee and water commisson, under the direction of Mr. W. G. Richards, superintendent of the waterworks, and Mr. Clayton, city engineer, who pronounce the test entirely satisfactory. They declared the well a grand success, and all that Colonel Baum has claimed for it. The supply of water inexaustable beyond a doubt. The water pure and cold, being only one degree warmer than ordinary well water in the city. The cost of producing the water is small, they say much less than estimated before the test was made. The artesian well is capable of producing two hundred thousand gallons of water per day. The estimates for permanent pumping ontit, stand pipe, and main, will be placed before the council tomorrow.

THE GATE CITY GUARD DRILL.—The Gate City Guard are preparing to give their many friends in this city, which in a word means the Atlanta public, a complimentary entertainment in the nature of a prize drill at De-Give's opera house at an early day. To prepare for this event the armory will be open every night for squad drills, and on Tuesday and Friday evenings there will be company drills, to which the public are invited. The Guard has determined to go to Savannah in May and take part in the prize drill, to be given under the auspices of the Chatham Artillery, which organization will at that time celebrate its centennial anniversary. It is a well known fact that a military company in Atlanta needs all of the support and encouragement that it can get, and it is to be hoped that the Guard will be given every encouragement, from the present time, until the organization boards the train for Savannah, to represent Atlanta in the grand array of the military of the United States. Poison at the Front Door.

No article entering so generally into the food of every family has been found more villatiously adulterated than baking powder. For the purpose of underselling those powders of absolute purity and wholesomeness, which alone are safe for use in food, hundreds of dealers are putting up baking powders with cheap and adulterated cream of tartar, which contains lime, earth, etc., adding strength by the free use of alum.

These adulterated powders are "shoved" upon the public with the greatest persistency. Many are given away—left in samples at private residences with circulars containing bogus analysis and certificates and false representations as to their value, etc. The worst of them are introduced to the house-keeper's attention by fraudulent tricks or by bogus samples, the articles when purchased being found to be entirely different from the sample showa. The fact that a powder is sampled from door to door is sufficient to condemn it. A first-class article will sell on its merits. No manufacturer whose goods are of value can afford to give them away, or to test them from door to door, and none but the cheapest make and most inferior or unmarketable goods require to be distributed free in order to get the public to use them, and this method is adopted only by parties who have falled to dispose of their wares through ordinary and legitimate channels.

Free samples of articles of food left at the house should be regarded with suspicion. There is no guarantee of their wholesomeness, while there is real danger that they contain a fatally poisonous should be regarded with suspicion. There is no guarantee of their wholesomeness, while there is real danger that they contain a fatally poisonous should be regarded with suspicion. The Silver Question Settled-Views of President Cleveland.

President Cleveland has decided to visit Atlanta President Cleveland has decided to visit Atlanta next fall, and the edict has gone-forth that in no case will be be willing to buy a dozen bottles of Delectalave, unless he can pay for them in silver currency. He acknowledges the beneficial effects of Delectalave are worth their weight in gold, but he desires to set an example in this matter, and the Delectalave company kindly 'accedes to his wishes. The company wish it understood that as they are willing to sell to President Cleveland for silver currency, they will sell to all others on like terms, and in this way solve the silver question, that has occasioned some embarrassment to the administration, and thereby relieve the United States treasury of the silver accumulations, and transfer the deposits to the pockets of the shareholders to be by them put in general circulation. A feasable arrangement that should meet the views of all parties.

It always does its work and does it well-Cheney's Expectorant.

Try one bottle of Delectalave and you will never be without it.

A Deserved Notice.

We take pleasure in calling attention to a simple yet a most useful invention, that might be styled the "Penman's friend." We refer to "Herzberg's patent inkstand." Briefly, among its desirable points are: The prevention of sinky fingers—therefore it is economical; no dust can enter the inkstand—therefore the ink is clean and kept at proper consistency. There is a convenient penrack attached, and the entire stand is shapely. We presume the book stores in Atlanta will have the inkstands for sale. If not, they can be had of Mr. M. Herzberg, the patentee West Point, Ga., at the price paid for an ordinary inkstand. We commend Mr. Herzberg and his really excellent invention to our readers.

Delectalave will cleanse and whiten the teeth, harden and beautify the gums, and impart a delightful fragrance to the breath.

Of all remedies offered none has such a hold on the confidence of the public as Cheney's Expectorant,

An Undisputed Fact,

Tis is a time of season when not much trade can be looked for in the Dry Goods business. When this fact is taken into consideration, it is perfectly astonishing to see the crowds that daily visit the large Dry Goods store of D. H. Dougherty & Co., and it is simply wonderful to see the amount of goods sold at this popular House, especially at this season of the year. The only accountable solution of this undisputed fact that we can see, is, that such great and grand bargains are being offered by this firm that they, like a powerul magnet, draw the crowds around their counters.

Delectalave is the best dentifrice now on the market.

Be prompt to attend the sale of the state's splendid vacant lot on Decatur street, just beyond the Kimball house, Tuesday, February 2d. Rice & Wilson.

Special bargains will be offered this week in every department at McConnell & James'.

Delectalave is recomended by all dentists and physicians.

He lived a useful life doing good to the poor and rich alike. His many friends and the community in which he was held in such high honor will miss his influence as well as his skill.

From the Great West.

For six years I was afflicted with chronic rheumatism, and during a portion of the time I was perfectly helpless, not being able to walk at all. I had several large running sores on my left leg during the whole time, and for a while it was drawn backward until nearly doubled. A number of skilled physicians attended was at various times but eave more tended me at various times, but gave me no relief. Being a druggist myself, I tried nearly relief. Being a druggist myself, I tried nearly all the patent medicines recommended for such cases without receiving any benefit. I finally cases without receiving any benefit. I finally concluded to try Swift's Specific. When I first commenced using it the sores began to discharge quantities of matter, accompanied with intense itching around the edges. My leg soon became so much swollen that I had a physician to lance it in several places, and pus discharged freely from each incision. I soon began to improve, and after taking six large bottles I found myself sound and well for the fact time in over six years. It has been about five bottles I found myself sound and well for the first time in over six years. It has been about five months since I recovered, and I have felt no symptoms of the disease since. I believe Swift's Specific the best medicine made, and I commend it especially to those who may be suffering from the same terrible afflictions, from which I have been so marvelously relieved.

Opening Hunter Street.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: I desire to call the attention of the authorities to what occurs to me to be's very necessary and important improvement at this time, i. e., the tunneling of the railroads and opening out West Hunter street. West Hunter is the direct and main thoroughfare for all the territory west of us to Douglasville and beyond. West Hunter is the direct and shortest route to Westview cemetery, which is fast becoming the principal buffal ground of the city, and with the nunnel would be eastly accessable from all parts of the city, and one mile nearer than any other route. The distance to Westview renders a funeral in the afternoon impractical and return in daylight. West Mitchell is practically obstructed, and becoming thore so with a network of railroads. With the tunnel there would be an unobstructed drive from Oalland to Westview on the same street. West Alabama should be widened from the ice house to Thompson street.

The dirt from the tunnel, I am told, could be readily sold to the railroad authorities.

This, it seems to me, the city autnorities should look into in the early future.

"The Leader of Low Prices," calls the attention of the public in our columns today to the fact that he has just opened a lot of new spring goods in almost every department, and that consequently, the attractions at his house will be very great this coming week. His lines of white goods, embroideries and dress goods are very full, and are well worthy of attention. His corset stock is in a state of perfection, whilst his shirts and their attractions are in every mouth. This gentleman carries a manumoth stock, and does a very live and large trade, and his efforts to place goods before the public at right prices have certainly been successful for his age is simply immense. He has, he says, a few blankets left, which will be the same. Read the Captain's notices and give him

Housewives, Attention.

We are pleased to see on our streets a number of ladies who are going from house to house ventilating frauds practiced upon us by baking powder manufacturers, and giving to the housewife a good insight into the mysterious ingredients of that article. Every housekeeper interested in the purity of human diet will allow these ladies to show the imposition and expose the adulterators of our daily bread. Certainly, if a product of daily use is made to appear better than it is, any means by which inferiority may be judged, ought to be thankfully received by an intelligent consumer. Sam'l W. Goode's Real Estate Bargains In Atlanta are varied and numerous.

It is said by many who have tried it that Palmer's Blood Purifier, sold at Jacobs' pharmacy in Atlanta, is the best remedy of the kind on the market, and large quantities are daily sold in Atlanta. We do know that Dr. Fred Palmer, the head prescriptionistist at Jacobs's drugstore, is one of the most learned and scientific compounders of drugs and medicines in the south. A life time devoted to the business puts him at the head of the profession, and for our part we had rather have a preparation of his compounding than from nine-tenths of the physicians in Georgia.

A brilliant reception at the home of Colonel J. J. Jones was tendered a number of guests by Miss Mary Toombs Jones in honor of her friend, Miss Corrie Hoyt, a charming gate city belle, on Tuesday evening last. The beautiful residence of Colonel Jones was brilliantly illuminated and presented a magnificent appearance. The decorations throughout the parlors, hall and dinigroom consisted in an artistic armisement of gray moss bamboo and mistelete. Malaga grapes and other rare fruits were arranged among the decorations so artifully that the beholder could but imagine himself in, some ancient oriental garden, where balmy zephers breathe in evenings ear beneath "heavens ebon vault, studded with stars unutterably bright, through which the moon in unclouded grandeur rolls." An exquisite mistletoe bower at the extreme end of the specious hall was the favorito resort of many of the beaux and belies of the evening. A superb supper was served at 11 o'clock. Small tables, with only two chairs, tastefully granaged here and there throughout the large dining hall, was the novel and unique manner in which each couple enjoyed the delica ies and sweet meats. The numerous guests were all attired in full evening dress, and comprised not only the beauty and gallantry of our own, but of several neighboring towns and cities. Miss Hoyt, superbly attired in an elegant cream satin en train, was the undisputed belle.

This first week of February will be a note This first week of February will be a notable one for its attractions. We will have at the opera house Janish, the famous Austrian actress, in one of the masterpices of Victoria Sardou, Princess Andrea, followed by Fanny Davemport, one of our great American artists, in another fine creation of the same author, Fedora; after them, to finish the week, Scanlan, the sunny Irish comedian, in his new play, Shane-nee-Lawn.

A dispatch from Savannah, of Friday night, says that "Janish is the greatest triumph Savannah has had for twenty years." This is a testimony which comes from home, and is not doubtful.

We commend to our readers the following fine analysis of the talent of the famous actress

We commend to our readers the following fine analysis of the talent of the famous actress from the Montreal Gazette of January 5th. After giving a short sketch of the play, the Gazette says: Such is a brief statement, from which, however, only an inadequate idea can be gathered of the play wherein this famous Austrian actress appeared first in Montreal. That Madame Janish is an actress of remarkably fine ability and striking individuality none who witnessed the performance last night will deny, and few will attempt to gainsay.

last night will deny, and few will attempt to gainsay.

The character of the Princess Andres is a broad and sufficient test of dramatic ability, yet is completely in range of her powers and affords admirable opportunity for the display of precisely those graces which most abound in Janish. To the embodiment of a peculiarly delicate and just conception of the character, she brings the combined witcheries of shapeliness of figure, exquisite perception, fine sense, elaborate costumes, and a flowing graciousness of manner and movement that go to compose a thoroughly artistic and carefully studied performance. From first to last she presents a picture full of color, light and shadow, satisfying alike to car and eye, with which memory delights to charge itself and cherish for future study. The principal defect last she presents a picture full of color, fight and shadow, satisfying alike to ear and eye, with which memory delights to charge itself and cherish for future study. The principal defect that mars her otherwise perfect work in a histrication of the considerable of the control of the contr police was a foreign and penetrating that was exquisitely finished in every detail. Janish was recalled three times.

On our fair countrywoman, Fanny Davenport, we read the following fair appreciation in the Boston Transcript:

"In spite of the varied and somewhat unusual attractions at the other places of amusements in Boston, the announcement that Fanny Davenport in her favorite role—that of the Princess Fedora, in Sardou's emotional and thrilling drama of that name—dre wa very large and select audience, which filled the Park theater to repletion, every seat being filled, while many of the patrons were compelled to content themselves with "standing room only." Fedora has been presented here so recently by Miss Davenport, and has been so commented upon at such length, that extended notice at this time a unnecessary. Artistically constructed in every part, the play is one that takes a strong hold on the immagination of the spectator, while without leng morbid, it is realistic to the extreme which falls short just of that, and it is blieved by striking situations and some most beautiful pictures of the modern melo-drama. As usual, Miss Davenport's impersonation is characterized by remarkaale dramatic power, vigor, and a thrilling effectiveness, which are thoroughly artistic and consistent throughout, albeit mounting at times to an intensity of passion, such as is seldom depicted even in the most realistic of all the modern dramas.

The great favorite comedian, Scanlan, is well known in Atlanta, and the following notice from the New York Telegram shows how he is apprethe New York Telegram shows how he is appreciated in the metropolis of this great country:

"Last evening Mr. W. J. Scanlan appeared at the People's theatre in "Shane-na-Lawn," a play by Messrs. James C. Roach and J. Armoy Knox, which was presented here for the first time. "Shane-na-Lawn" answers well the purpose with which it was apparently written, that of giving Mr. Scanlan an opportunity of displaying to advantage his talents as an Irish comedian. His impersonation of Shane-na-Lawn, a walf, whose mother is the dew-besprent sod of old Ireland, is clever and interesting from first to last."

The contract for Clara Louise Kellogg grand concert for February 12th, was signed last Friday, and our citizens will do well to prepare for the advent of the great singer.

FROST-BITTEN FLORIDA.

BILL ARP HEARS FROM THE SUNNY

Florida is breathing easier. The shock of the great disaster was bewildering at first and the people looked at one another in a mazement, but now they know the worst and have had time to digest it. The worst of bad luck is never so bad as it seems, and there is besides an elasticity about our nature that gives a rebound and saves us from utter despair. But Florida is badly hurt. "The city of Shushan was perplexed,"and just so the little city of Sanford was perplexed. All Florida was perplexed. There were all shades of opinion about the freeze, but the more hopeful view of the great calamity prevailed and most everybody thought there would be something saved from the wreck-some ten or twenty or even fifty per cent of the crop. A few even declared per cent of the crop. A few even declared their oranges were not materially hurt and would do to ship. Nabor talked to nabor and they carefully examined each other's groves. Every bedy in the vicinity came to town to compare notes and they talked fast and serious. There were no jokes, no hilarity, for all had doubts as well as hopes, and all feared the ruin that was impending. Oranges were cut and tasted by the hundred, but still there was no well settled onnion. Colonel anges were cut and tasted by the hundred, but still there was no well settled opinion. Cölonel Markham came down from Atlanta as fast as steam could bring him. He was hopeful, very. He said his crop was fifteen thousand boxes, and he would not sell out, even now, for less than ten thousand dollars. He went out the next day to examine his fruit, and when he returned he was still calm and seven and I thought was confirmed in his and screne, and I thought was confirmed in his hopes, but he said, "No—I give it up. There is not a sound orange in Florida, but the trees are afe and I am satisfied." He made no sign of distress, and returned home with dignity of distress, and returned home with dignity and composure. But not so with the majority of owners, for the majority were not rich like Colonel Markham. The majority have but little beside their orange crop to depend on. The majority ownency and their crop was to pay it. There are mortgages to lift and advances to make good. Merchants and bankers advance on the golden fruit just as ours do on the fleecy cotton. Oranges are everything. They are cotton. Oranges are everything. They are the great staple and the only staple. We are better off in this regard, for if our cotton is cut short we have wheat and corn and oats and cows and hogs and sheep, but they have nothing here but fruit. There are not half dozen market gardens within reach of Sanford, but the orange crop within a circuit of four miles was set down by good judges and by close count at two hundred thousand boxes and they were good for that many dollars after paying all expenses. The loss to this county is not less than a million of dol-lars. Some say more, and this loss is felt by the whole population. Railroads and steam-boat lines have lost the freight. For a days there was great activity, and highways were crowded with trains hurrying their loads to the wharfs, and the steamboa lines agreed to charge no freight if the cargo did not realize enough to pay it. Some bold speculators bought at thirty cents a box and selected their fruit, but they soon gorged the selected their fruit, but they soon gorged the southern markets, and the worth was too remote to risk the spoiling fruit. New York condeinned what did arrive and now it is all over, and not five per cent was saved or sold. The whole face of the earth all around Sanford is yellow. Every grove is carpeted with golden, mushy fruit. It is now hardly possible to get an orange that is fit to eat, and the good people of Florida are perplexed. A million of dollars swept from a single county in a single night is a terrible calamity and hard to realize. That million would change hands perhaps a hundred times during the year and leave some good at every would change hands perhaps a hundred times during the year and leave some good at every change. But it is gone, and the people feel it. They are troubled, but still they hold up better than I expected. They say they will get along and not be driven to the wall. They will stand up to one another. The rich will be liberal and the poor prudent, and all will patiently wait for another crop. And such a crop as it was—so beautiful and so abundant. It was said to be twenty-five nevent for greater than erop as it was—so beautiful and so abundant. It was said to be twenty-five per cent greater than any that preceded. It was a luxury—a feast to ride around Sanford and look at the groves. The eye never tired, and it was enough to make a man covet his neighbor's property.

But Florida is here still, and her delightful climate is here exill, and her delightful climate is here sail, and her dengining climate is here all the same, and these people can afford one great disaster in fifty years. My children write me from home and tell of the bitter freezes and chilling winds that have been there are a day but for weeks while been there, not for a day, but for weeks, while been there, not for a day, but for weeks, while here we seldom need a fire or an overcoat. I envy those who have pleasant winter homes in Florida and I would have one, too, if I could. Every well-to-do Georgian should invest a litte money here for his children, for there is but one Florida. People may live away and buy her fruits and enjoy them, but her climate is here to stay, and if you want it you must come to it. The time is near at hand when one can come here in a day from most any part of Georgia, and Georgians will need this beautiful garden for rest and recreation. The late freeze will, of course, check the sales of real estate for awhile, but not long. People are flocking here from all the states and from foreign countries, and all seem delighted. If a man buys he either keeps his purchase or sells for a higher figure. There is no backdown.

It is curious how a man's emotions are affected by his surroundings. When I wrote seldom need a fire or an

It is curious how a man's emotions are affected by his surroundings. When I wrote you a few weeks ago about Florida, the cold wave was upon us and a sick boy was lingering in the chamber where I wrote in the dark watches of the night, and I fear I saw the glo m of the picture and did not do Florida justice. A man ought not to write under such circumstances. But now the pleasant sun shines upon the lakes and the land, and the sick boy is convalescing in his easy chair, and sick boy is convalescing in his easy chair, and the night watches have ceased, and everything has a diarerat hue to me. Sometimes I would broad over trouble till I could not

I would brood over trouble till I could not sleep. I would imagine the house on fire and plan a way of getting the sick boy out of the chamber window and down to the ground. Half dreaming, I would conjure up some great claster to the dear ones at home, a fire, a roble you so something worse, and it seemed that I wor something worse, and it seemed that I so crazy if I could not get away from the son and take the boy and his weary methome. I was telling my good friend, Dr. tey, of these vagaries, and he comfort me by telling of his trip to Titusville, average was the only one that plied that river ne by telling of his trip to Titusville, at own south of this, on a little steamer that as the only one that plied that river, and ow for many miles if steamed along in narrow windings, hemmed in on either side by a watery wildnerness, with logs and tuscocks here and there, and alligators sunning their scaly backs and he got to thinking about how if the boat should take fire, what then. He could almost jump to the bank or a log or a tuscock, but what next. After the boat was burned what would become of him, a pitiful spectacle sitting on a rotten stump with his feet in the water and waiting for a rescue. No road, no telegraph, no other boat to come, and in about twenty-four hours the people of Sanford would begin to wonder why the boat did not come back, and in another 24 hours they would send up a skiff or something, and long before it arrived the alligators would grab him unless he waded to a tree and climbed it and got in a fork, and even then tired nature would go to sleep and he would fall into an alligator s mouth at last. And he said it all worried him so he would have given a hundred dollars to be safe at the end of his journey.

But these Florida people are very kind. We have found friends that we knew and some that we knew not. It was only yesterday that we were surprised with some of the good things that abound near Lake Apopka. Mr. Perkins and his good wife and their nabors sent the sick boy a good deal more than he can eat just now, for those were fat, healthy chickens and oranges and tangerines that had half bushel and tho buds of the palmetto round, which is regarded by the natives as the finest vegetable dish in the world. It looks like ivory, pure ivory, and tastes like green chestnuts and when cooked is a delightful mixture of green corn and oysters. When pickled it is better than cauliflower and the bulk research whit is not month. a delightful mixture of green corn and oysters. When pickled it is better than cauliflower and the only reason why it is not upon the tables of the rich and the epicures is because you have to cut down a tree to get it. The good people around Lake Apopka have fine lands and do not depend alone upon oranges. But Sanford is lovely in its surroundings. Orlando cannot buy this beautiful lake that is seven miles wide and abounds in the finest fish in the world. Night and day the sonerous music of the steamer's whistle is heard upon her waters, and there is sweet peace and tranquility in sitting upon her wharves and letting the senses take in the seeme. Nature is put for sale, and Sanford is secure in her blessings. The next letter I write you I trust will be from home, sweet home, a place that has no lakes nor orange groves, nor balmy air, but it is the dearest place on earth to me, and our three months' pilgrimage in Elevida has made it dearest still. Those litearth to me, and our three months in Florida has made it dearer still. Those lit-tle home-made pictures that hang over the mautle in so many humble cottages, with "God bless our home," in ornamental letters, worked or painted there, have always commanded a silent, thoughtful reverence from me. They are common, I know, but it is the prayer, the universal prayer, that a nation should make—a prayer that if made from the heart would be answered, and would be our safeguard in time of trouble—"God bless our home!"

to bearin mind that one of Benson's Capcine Plaster is worth a dozen of any other porous plaster. Benson's plasters are a genuine medicinal article endorsed and used by the medical profession from Maine to California. They cure in a few hours ailments which no others will even relieve. Cheap and worthless imitations are sold by dealers who care more for large profits on trash than they do for the sweets of an approving conscience. Beware of them, and of the "Capucin," Capsicin," "Capsicine" and "Capsicium" plasters which they sell to the unwary. These names are nothing but misleading variations on the name "Capcine." Note the difference, go to reputable druggists, and you will not be deceived. The genuine Benson's has the "Three Seals" trademark and the word "Capcine" cut in the centre.

Seeing your Cuticura Remedies so highly recommended, concluded to give them a trial, using the Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, and Zesolvent, internally, for four months. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.
